Chase Osborne (14) and Robert Osborne (35) battle for the lead in the feature. Robert won the feature.

Osborne victorious

Johnson takes standings lead

He took the white flag three times last week before pulling off his first win of the season.

Twice Norfolk's Robert Osborne took the white flag but before he got to turn three the yellow flag was thrown. Finally, after the third time Osborne saw the checkered flag to take the feature win.

Robert's son Chase Osborne led the first six laps before the older Osborne slipped by. Several cautions kept the field bunched through the middle portion of the race, however, a longer green flag period gave Osborne breathing room.

Nine laps went green and Osborne was making the last circuit when the yellow flag was thrown for a spin in turn four.

Osborne was leading with Travis Birkley of Wakefield second and Chris Johnson was third.

On the first restart, Birkley got a good start, however, Osborne maintained the lead. Again, after taking the white flag a car spun in turn four slowing the field.

On the final restart, Osborne got a better jump and this time got to take the checkered flag.

It was his first win of the season and his third career win at the track. Birkley followed through for second, his third top 5 of the season.

Jim Johnson of Plainview used the extra laps to make a last lap pass on his brother Chris to take third. That extra position helped him take over the top spot in the point's race. Jim Johnson passed Cedar Rapid's Zach Zentner for the top spot by two points.

Jim Johnson and Zentner battle tonight for the 2018 title.

Pospisil takes second victory

No cautions were thrown in the Sport Compact feature, as Shannon Pospisil outraced the field for his second feature win of the season.

The Norfolk driver grabbed the lead on the third lap and distanced himself from the field early on.

Ramsey Meyer of Pierce closed the gap in the final laps, but not enough to challenge for the win.

Pospisil won by several car lengths. It was his second of the season and his fourth career at the track.

Meyer finished second for the second time. It was his 12th top 5. Parker Vollbrecht of Stanton crossed the line third for his 12th top 5.

Mark Benedict of Norfolk finished fourth and Tanner Uehling finished fifth.

Meyer leads the points by 21 points and looks to win his third title in four years at the track, his second consecutive. Lance Mielke won the title in 2016.

Wyatt Lehman (6) took his first career win in the Hobby Stock class last week.

Lehman takes first career victory in class

In his sophomore season in the Hobby Stock season, Wyatt Lehman grabbed his first career win at the track.

Lehman came through the Sport Compact ranks. He had one season in the smaller class where he picked up one win and four top 5s.

He then raced one night at the track in the Hobby Stock division in 2016. In his rookie season at the track he ran 12 of the 13 "A" features, however, he did not place in the top 5.

This season is his sophomore season and again he has raced 12 of the 13 "A" features. He has five top 5s and is a feature winner.

Lehman started on the inside of the third row just behind Mark Arduser of Battle Creek. An incident on the first lap, however, put the polesitter in the pits giving Arduser the pole and Lehman was now second row.

At the drop of the green flag the second time, Arduser moved out front, as Lehman fell to third behind Gage Koch of Norfolk.

Another caution was thrown, and this time Lehman used the high side to pass both Koch and Arduser to take the lead by lap six.

Two more cautions slowed the field, but Lehman continued to pull away each time to take the victory.

Koch came back to take second. Jeremy Hoskinson finished third. Lance Mielke of Norfolk was given fourth and Jim Kimmel of Norfolk was fifth.

C a m e r o n

Wilkinson comes into tonight with a 20-point lead. He will need to start the night to win. It was a year ago Wilkinson tied with Austin Brauner of Platte Center for the title, but Brauner had one more feature win for the tie breaker. Brauner received the title.

David Johnson (97) runs his heat race. Johnson later won the feature.

Johnson wins feature

David Johnson occasionally makes the trip to Norfolk to try his hand at the oval and last week he went home with a feature win.

The Monroe driver started on the inside of the sixth row and was running third after only five laps.

A lap later he was in second running down race leader Wes Hochstein of Randolph.

Hochstein managed to keep him behind him until lap 10 when Johnson got by on the inside.

By this time Robbie Thome of Spalding had gotten to the back bumper of Johnson along with Colby Langenberg.

In the closing laps, Johnson pulled a slight advantage, as Thome and Langenberg raced side-by-side.

Thome slowly got away from Langenberg and made several attempts to get Johnson.

However, Johnson took his first career win at the track after seven starts in the last four years.

Thome took second for his eighth top 5 of the season. Third went to Langenberg, who has had six top 5s.

Cameron Meyer of Pierce finished fourth and Tyler Afrank of Norfolk rounded out the top 5.

In the points, Meyer closed in another two points on Joey Haase of Norfolk. Haase now has a four-point lead going into tonight's feature.

Both drivers have one win with nine top 5s. Meyer has seven heat race wins to Haase's four.

Cameron Meyer (21) took a fourth place finish, Joey Haase (2) finished sixth, as Tyler Afrank (11A) placed fifth.
