Langenberg scores victory on opening night

Colby Langenberg stuck his right rear tire on the cushion after the final caution and raced his way to victory.

The Norfolk driver started on the inside of the second row and followed pole sitter Jacob Swanson of Lincoln to the front.

Several laps later Langenberg found himself back pedaling as Brian Osantowski of Columbus got by him. Kyle Prauner of Norfolk was the next driver to work on him for a position.

However, a caution came out on lap six. On the restart, Langenberg was third behind Swanson and Osantowski.

Langenberg went back to the high side and made it work as he pulled away to lead the final 11 laps for the win.

It was Langenberg's ninth win at the track and his 35th top 5 finish.

Osantowski worked high and low trying to find any grip. He finished second. It was his career 12th top 5 finish.

Prauner rolled in third, marking his 43rd career top 5 finish in 49 nights at the track.

Robbie Thome of Spalding got by Swanson for fourth place, as Swanson wrapped up the top 5.

Wes Hochstein of Randolph won the B feature. Jeremy Gnat of Battle Creek, Langenberg and Swanson each winning heat races.

Jason Wilkinson (52) races inside of Ryan Fajman (3) in their heat race. Wilkinson won the heat race and later won the feature.

Wilkinson wins feature

They are both past champions and veterans in the sport of racing. While one has experience in various divisions the other is running a new division for only the second year.

After 15-laps in the Hobby Stock division, it was Jason Wilkinson of Neligh taking the feature victory. Shannon Pospisil of Norfolk, a sophomore in the class, finished a close second.

Wilkinson (who has 14 stock car division wins, 42 top 5 finishes, along with two champions) jumped into a Hobby Stock last week to picked up another victory for his resume.

While Pospisil has been running Sport Compacts, last season he made the switch to Hobby Stocks.

Wilkinson started on the outside of the second row as Pospisil was fourth row inside.

By lap 4, Wilkinson was leading and Pospisil was running second. Pospisil stayed close to Wilkinson's bumper for most of the feature until Wilkinson pulled away in the closing laps.

It was Wilkinson's first Hobby Stock win at the track. Pospisil finished second for his sixth career top 5 finish.

Tanner Uehling of Norfolk, also in his second season of Hobby Stocks, battled with Lance Mielke of Norfolk for the third spot. Uehling moved into the third spot on lap 11.

Mielke got by Uehling on lap 14, however, Uehling came back on the final lap to edge Mielke at the line for third. It was Uehling's second career top 5 finish.

Mielke finished fourth and Nate DeSive of O'Neill rounded out the top 5.

Addison captures win

It was going to be more than a late race caution to deny Justin Addison a feature victory.

The Norfolk driver started on the inside of the second row and after two cautions and two laps, Addison was pacing the field.

Shawn Primrose of Norfolk led the first lap with Addison leading the rest. After three of the four cautions, Addison pulled a slight advantage over Primrose.

With three laps remaining, a caution bunched the field. On the restart, Addison maintained the lead while a battled for second allowed him stretch for second allowed him stretch the lead.

Addison took the win for his second career victory in the Stock Car division. He has five wins in the SportMods division where he was track champion in 2017.

Second went to Primrose, who edged out his cousin Tanner Pettitt of Norfolk for the spot. It was Primrose's 47th career top 5 finish at the track.

The Norfolk driver led the first lap of the 25-lap feature but fell back as Zach Zentner of Cedar Rapids took over the top spot using the bottom line.

Zentner pulled a slight advantage over second until Cory Dumpert of York closed in by lap

14. As Dumpert started working the inside of Zentner, the two cars entered turn three. Dumpert, who was on the inside, spun bringing out the final caution.

On the restart, Sukup went to the high side and found his way by Zentner. Sukup worked both the high and low side of the track to pull away for the win. He led the final 11 laps bringing his career total to 303 laps led, which is 24 percent of the laps he has raced.
