Gage Koch (96) races with Nate DeSive (31K) in their heat. Koch later won his second feature of the season.

Top three in the Hobby Stocks were Gage Koch, Mark Arduser and Lance Mielke.

Koch victorious again

It was a battle of the 96s in the Hobby Stock feature with Gage Koch of Norfolk taking his second-straight win of the season.

Neligh's Jason Wilkinson won the track title despite mechanical trouble which had him pulling off the track before the finish.

In the battle for the feature, Norfolk's Stephanie Reynolds in the 96R car battled with Koch in the 96 car.

Reynolds led seven of the 15 laps before a restart did not go as planned. It was the second to last caution with five laps remaining when it appeared her car had a problem entering turn one.

The car travelled straight up the embankment and struck the turn one wall ending her night.

That gave Koch a clear track on the final restart and he led the final five laps for his second straight win. Mark Arduser of Battle Creek crossed second with Lance Mielke of Norfolk taking third. Shannon Pospisil of Norfolk finished fourth and Travis Coover of Neligh rounded out the top 5.

Nursing a leaking transmission, Wilkinson had to stay on track incase second in points Nate DeSive of O'Neill worked his way into the top 3.

Wilkinson had a 14-point lead going into the night. If DeSive had won the feature, Wilkinson need to finish 14th or better to claim the title.

As Wilkinson stayed in contact with the back of the field, DeSive had started working his way to the front.

After lap six was completed, he was struck from behind, which eventually ended his night laps later. He finished 16th out 16 cars.

Wilkinson pushed on until his car finally gave out. He finished 13th.

It was his first Hobby Stock title, which was added to his two Stock Car titles.

Jon Haase (45) celebrates his first Late Model feature win last week.

Haase scores first Late Model victory

Generally, when track titles are on the line it overshadows the race winner sitting in victory lane on championship night.

But Jon Haase stole the spotlight.

With a roar of the crowd, the Plainview driver climbed from his stock car a first-time feature winner.

Grandson of legend Raymond Haase, Jon Haase led all 25-laps holding off the likes of Ben Sukup of Norfolk and Stanton's Nelson Vollbrecht in a two-lap shootout.

The race went uninterrupted for 24.25 of the 25-lap feature when a caution for a spun car stopped the action.

Sukup had closed in on Haase and as the two drivers took the white flag, a car spun in turns one and two bringing out the caution.

On the restart, Haase, Sukup and Vollbrecht each had a good restart, however, Sukup struggled on exit of the turns, allowing Haase and Vollbrecht to gain the advantage.

Haase took the win by a car length with Vollbrecht second and Sukup a close third. Robert Osborne and son, Chase Osborne, both of Norfolk, placed fourth and fifth, respectively.

Despite finishing third in the feature, Sukup was crowned track champion.

He had a one-point advantage over

Chase Osborne going into the night. Last year Sukup was trailing by one point to Robert Osborne going into championship night. However, the final race was cancelled, and the older Osborne captured his second title.

Chase Osborne lost more ground to Sukup in his heat race last week when a car spun in front of him. Sukup won his heat race for three additional points, as Osborne finished fifth in his heat.

In the early part of the feature, Chase Osborne stayed ahead of a struggling Sukup.

Sukup said his setup was not working at first, but as soon as he got more laps on his tires, he was headed to the front.

Sukup slipped by Chase Osborne just past the halfway mark of the race. Sukup won the title by six points over Chase Osborne. Vollbrecht finished third in the points moving ahead of Eric Vanosdall by two points.

Greg Taylor (55jr) won on his second trip to the track last week.

Taylor grabs victory

Leading the final two laps, Greg Taylor of Sioux City won the Stock Car feature in his second visit to the track, as Cameron Wilkinson of captured the track title.

Taylor, who was disqualified a week earlier after finishing fourth in that feature, passed Jeremy Hoskinson of Norfolk three times before capturing the win.

Hoskinson took advantage of several timely cautions. Hoskinson pushed up the track twice which allowed Taylor to get by, but a caution erased each pass. Finally, with two laps remaining, Taylor completed the pass, again, after Hoskinson pushed up the track.

Hoskinson, who led 10 laps, settled for second. Third went to Chuck Sands of Neligh. Wilkinson drove through fourth and Austin Brauner of Platte Center rounded out the top 5.

Wilkinson captured the track title, his third straight track title at the track. He won the Hobby Stock division the last two seasons before moving up in ranks.

The top 3 in the feature were, Chuck Sands (3rd), Jeremy Hoskinson (2nd) and Greg Taylor (1st).

Above, the top 3 in the feature were, Chuck Sands (3rd), Jeremy Hoskinson (2nd) and Greg Taylor (1st). Right, Chuck Sands (74x) took his first top 5 of the season.

Three wins for Roebuck

Genoa's James Roebuck and Columbus' Brian Osantowski put on another show in the SportMod division, with Roebuck coming out with his third victory of the season.

The track title went to Norfolk's Colby Langenberg who had locked the points race the previous week.

In the feature Roebuck and Osantowski exchanged the lead six times in a couple laps before Roebuck changed his line to set up a pass on a slower car.

Osantowski, who had a head of steam, tried to shift his line but clipped and spun out Roebuck.

Osantowski was sent to the rear of the field and Roebuck restarted out front.

On the restart, Roebuck pulled a slight advantage as Kyle Prauner of Norfolk and David Johnson of Columbus ran side-by-side.

Once Prauner cleared Johnson, the final caution was thrown. On the restart, Prauner challenged Roebuck a couple laps before Roebuck slipped away for his third win of the season.

Prauner was second and Johnson placed third. Norfolk's Joey Haase, who ran in the top 5 all night, finished fourth. Cameron Meyer of Pierce rounded out the top 5.

In the title hunt, Langenberg had a 46-point lead going into championship night. He was only one of two cars to race each week.

He finished with a 40-point lead.

James Roebuck is congratulated by flagman Mike Jensen after winning his third feature of the season.
