Points titles are locked up heading into Championship Night

By Randy Pospishil

sports@norfolkdailynews.com

None of the 2023 points leaders at Off Road Speedway won an "A" feature on Saturday night but, nevertheless, their respective track championships are secure heading into next Saturday's championship night.

In the IMCA Late Models feature, a third-place finish was good enough to add to the seven-point lead that Newman Grove's Cory Dumpert had over Norfolk's Chase Osborne, who finished sixth, entering the final regular night of points racing at the track.

Beau Johnson of Plainview won a Late Models feature for the second time, taking advantage of a starting position on the outside of row one and leading all 25 laps by several car lengths as the field spread out behind him.

Beau's cousin Devin Johnson, a Bloomfield driver, spent most of the race in third, chasing Norfolk's Matt Haase until Haase's car skidded high on the track in turn two and made brief contact with the wall before rejoining the pursuit of the leader.

Meanwhile, Dumpert steadily moved forward through the field, eventually passing Haase with three laps left to grab third place behind Devin Johnson. Norfolk's Tanner Pettitt celebrated his birthday with his first IMCA Stock Cars "A" feature victory of the season, making the most of a starting position on the pole to lead the entire race.

Cameron Wilkinson and Kyle Wilkinson, both of Neligh, finished in second and third place behind Pettitt, with Kyle ending the regular racing season with a points championship in the division.

Mark Arduser's first win in the IMCA Hobby Stocks feature this season allowed him to cut into the points deficit the Battle Creek driver trails Wayne's Dakota Spann by in a battle for the second spot on the points list. But both are too far behind to threaten points champ Nate Buck of Neligh.

Arduser came from the middle of the 16-car field, getting into second behind race leader Anthony Nelson following a restart after the third of the race's five cautions.

Arduser also slipped into third place behind Buck with five laps remaining before one last caution set up a four-lap sprint to the flag stand by the trio of cars.

Arduser got past Buck, then gained ground on Nelson and made a move to the inside of turn two to gain an advantage that continued exiting turn four. The two cars made contact just before passing the flag stand with Arduser edging Nelson for the win while Buck took third place.

At 71 years old, Dean Wilkinson of Neligh started on the outside of row one in the IMCA SportMods "A" feature and led 14 of 15 laps to garner his first win of the season. Norfolk's Colby Langenberg pressured Dean Wilkinson's rear bumper for the final seven laps, trying multiple slide jobs. The final attempt, which began with a move down to the low area of the track entering turn three and continued to the high side coming out of turn four, provided Langenberg with a brief lead with three laps left. However, when Langenberg's car skidded slightly in turn two, Dean Wilkinson regained the lead and closed out a narrow victory. Terry Kester of Oakdale finished in third behind Langenberg, while Norfolk's Tyler Afrank — the division's points champ — took fourth.

Norfolkans Anthony Ahlman and Kyle Reed, the points winner, finished in first and second place, respectively, in the four-cylinder feature. AJ Hawthorne of Battle Creek was third.

The 2023 season at Off Road Speedway will wrap up with a pair of memorial events the next two Saturdays, beginning with the Lynn Langenberg Memorial on Aug. 26 followed by the Bob Haase Memorial on Sept. 2.
